

A BRIEF BIOGRAPHY OF JASON BROWNE

Jason Browne became active in the cannabis movement in 1995, as a volunteer with Cannabis Action Network in Humboldt County. While there, he gathered signatures for Proposition 215, registered voters and promoted its passage by co-producing concerts and events. After the Compassionate Use Act was passed into law, he helped organize "Clinic 215", which was later incorporated as "Humboldt Medical Cannabis Center". This was the first dispensary in Humboldt County, serving north-coast patients consistently for five years, from 1997 – 2001. Jason also co-founded several organizations dedicated to the implementation of California's medicinal cannabis laws, including the "Medical Cannabis Association" and "Patients' Health Defense". After the closure of H.M.C.C. in 2001, Jason went on to formulate the "Direct Access" model of cannabis cultivation and distribution and went on to assist hundreds of qualified individuals with accessing 100% of their medical cannabis needs for 17 years. He did this by directly serving as the garden administrator / master gardener for cannabis collectives in Humboldt and Tehama Counties, and by assisting many qualified individuals with forming their own collectives and cooperatives throughout California.

Jason is currently the sole owner of Full Circle Cannabis Consultations, and he anticipates expanding its operations and reforming as a Limited Liability Company. Services offered by F.C.C.C. include: Providing expert testimony, legal assistance and courtroom investigation services in cannabis and hemp related criminal and civil matters; Providing research and development services for administrative hearings and abatement hearings; Production of educational products for the cannabis industry; Consultations regarding business formation goals, and; Assistance navigating state and local licensing & regulatory requirements for commercial cannabis and hemp applicants. His educational products include: Creation of customized Operations and Compliance Manuals, and; Notarized third-party assessments regarding potential plant yields, aggregate consumer demands and plant conversion requirements for manufactured products.

Jason has revised two organizations that he started in 2014 and then mothballed. He serves as an Executive Director for a 501-C-4 called Cannabis Liberation League - CA (formerly "California Liberty Alliance"), and he serves as an administrator of its state-wide Political Action Committee. C.L.L.-CA engages in local chapter building throughout California, providing advocacy on behalf of its membership through educational and legal means, with the P.A.C. able to engage with local and state political campaigns and ballot measures. Both organizations work together supporting efforts to replace local bans and abatement schemes with reasonable cannabis regulations that allow for personal cultivation and commercial licensure.

Jason is the founder of Emerald Coast Holding Company, a real estate and equipment holding corporation that is currently seeking angel investors and royalty-based financing, to launch operations by 2019 / 2020. For more information, please visit:
